THE GLOBAL GOALS

For Sustainable Development

What are the SDGs?

- In 2015, countries around the world made a big plan.
- They agreed on 17 important goals.
- These goals are called the UN Sustainable Development Goals, or “SDGs.”
- The SDGs are promises.
- They promise to make life better for people everywhere.
- They also promise to take care of our planet.

Pretty good, don't you think?

The UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) aim to make the world fair and safe for everyone. They are a global plan for all countries.

The goals include:

- Ending poverty
- Improving health and education
- Fighting climate change
- Protecting animals and nature.

The idea is to reach these goals by the year 2030.

Let's explore the 17 Goals together!

1 NO POVERTY

Goal 1: No Poverty

The goal is to end poverty everywhere.
